LAKE SHORE COTTAGE
FOR MID-WEST FOLKSChicago Branch of Big Box
Concern Introduces a New Idea.

The Mid-West Box company of Chicago, a branch of the same organization that owns the Mid-West Virginia box factory in this city has erected a handsome cottage for its employees at Grant Beach, a popular resort on the shores of Lake Michigan near Chicago. The Grand Beach Breeze, a sprightly weekly published for the benefit of the Grand Beach summer colony in its issue of August 16 had the following to say about the new cottage:

The new club house erected by the Mid-West Box company, of Chicago, is to be used primarily as a rallying ground for the Mid-West organization. The initial need for a structure of this kind was felt by Mid-West through the trouble experienced in locating a satisfactory meeting place for their annual convention of executives, heads of departments and salesmen.

The Mid-West organization is highly specialized, and a great deal of care is used in selecting its personnel. Co-operation is one of the fundamental principles, and this necessitates many meetings of the many departments, topped off with the annual meeting. In these annual meetings Mid-West conducts a sales convention, engineering school and plant managers' meetings.

The Mid-West management believes in giving Mid-West associates every opportunity for individual progress, which, of course, makes for united progress.

"Mid-Westwood" is an innovation in the industrial field in the west. As a rule, industrial firms hold conventions, but they are not held at a permanent location. The General Electric company in the least varied from this custom by purchasing in Lake Ontario an island called "Association Island," upon which are held many important meetings during the year. As a result, business is combined with outing and pleasure, and traditions are being built around Association Island which are dear to the important men in the General Electric company who are fortunate enough to be high enough in the organization to enjoy the advantages of the island.

"Mid-Westwood" will be used in a very similar way, and Grand Beach was selected because of its golf course, bathing beach, woods, and proximity to Chicago, where the general offices of the Mid-West Box company are located. Each year a regular appropriation will be made for "Mid-Westwood" the same as for any of the five manufacturing plants of the Mid-West Box company, and the place will be built up and beautified.

Not only will all of the important meetings of the Mid-West Box company, in the summer, be held at "Mid-Westwood," but undoubtedly many meetings of several other large industrial concerns with whom the Mid-West Box company is closely allied will be held at "Mid-Westwood." The fact that "Mid-Westwood" will be under the personal supervision of the executives of the Mid-West Box company will insure that only high class industrial firms will be permitted to use the club house for meetings, and that any individual in attendance at these meetings, or who has the privilege of "Mid-Westwood" will be of the right class and character.

"Mid-Westwood" will not only advertise Grand Beach to a larger clienttele of the right people, but will undoubtedly influence people to come to Grand Beach who before this have not known that a resort of such desirability was so near and so accessible to Chicago and the middle west.

The Mid-West club house is built in the shape of an L. The main part of the first floor is devoted to a large, spacious lounge with an artistic fireplace at one end. Leading from this large assembly room or lounge are sleeping rooms, shower baths and other accommodations. The entire second floor is devoted to sleeping rooms. All of the rooms are outside, so as to have plenty of air, and they are furnished in such a way as to insure the comfort of the guest. There are accommodations for about eighty guests.
